Fishermen's Superstitions

At the beginning of the herring season the crew all try to seize the herring first on board, to see if it be male or female. If it is a male, their fishing may be expected to be a poor one, if a female, a good one. Sometimes, however, the skipper secures it, and it always sits up and lays it out for the season. The boat must not be turned against the sun. Certain animals, considered of all omen must not be seen in the boat, and ministers in this respect occupy the same place as rabbits, hares and pigs. Fishermen do not like to lend anything to a neighboring boat, lest their luck should go with it. If they lend a match, they will contrive secretly if possible, to break it and keep it, hoping thereby to retain their luck. Their dislike to have anything stolen is very strong, and the fear that the thief may have stolen their luck with it. To ask the question "Where are you going?" of any one who is going on board is equivalent to destroying all his chances for that time. Persons with certain names are held to be of bad omen, the dreaded names being different in different villages. —Notes and Queries.

Back From Georgia.

She drove up to the depot in an old cart drawn by an ox with lines attached to his horns, and she repeated her inquiries about the train from the east so often that the depot agent finally asked, "Are you expecting friends on that train?"

"I'm looking for my son Sam and his wife," she replied.

"Coming on a visit?"

"No, sah. They don't moved over to Georgia six months ago, but they doan't like it and are comin' back."

"Mighty good state that Georgia. I've heard say so, but Sam can't a-bear it. Good lands and good crops but the people is too scumptions."

"How scumptions?" he queried.

"I doan exactly know, but I reckon Sam can explain. He is a fat man, and for months when they turned an fat man, he had an rode him all over the country in a rail." —Detroit Free Press

FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1893.

CHECKING THE GOLD DRAIN.

Though wheat is cheaper at Chicago and the other grain centers of the country than at any previous time since 1857 it is now being used to turn the flow of gold from Europe to the United States. Bread is an essential and England cannot yet get enough wheat to appease the appetites of its people from India, so it has to import breadstuffs from the United States, though such importation interferes with the scheme of its silver hatters by turning the flow of gold westward. To supply the European demand a New York dispatch says there are 1,200,000 bushels of wheat stored in that city, Brooklyn and Jersey City; 1,500,000 bushels in the course of transportation on the lakes and 2,000,000 bushels on the Erie canal and Hudson river. This wheat is all consigned to Europe to be turned into gold. During the four weeks ending June 21st over 14,000,000 bushels cleared from the United States for European ports, and freight room is engaged for 10,000,000 bushels more that will go abroad within the next thirty or forty days. This aggregate of 24,000,000 bushels of wheat even at the exceptionally low price at which it now sells is equivalent to a draft on Europe for about $17,000,000 in gold, for two months' shipment.

The farmers of the United States who produce wheat, cotton, corn and pork for exportation, save the country from being drained of gold, yet they are the greatest sufferers from the low prices caused by the demonetization of silver. Statisticians show by statements, the accuracy of which cannot be denied, that the farmers lost over $650,000,000 in 1892 by the decline in prices caused by the depreciation in silver.

This loss exceeds the tariff duties, internal revenue and all other taxes collected by the government in 1892, by $200,000,000, yet the goldbug speakers and press appeal to the agriculturists to aid them in their infamous schemes to make money scarce.

ARRANT HYPOCRISIES.

A wail goes up from the goldbugs over the decline in silver, but it is hypocritical and insincere. For years they have been exercising all the devilish ingenuity of which they are possessed to accomplish the end now attained. They have resorted to bribery and deception to demonize the money of the masses to make gold more valuable and their grief over the action of the Indian government is simulated.

It is not possible that men who insisted on the suspension of silver coinage in the United States and sang paeans to prayer of Secretary Carlisle when he obeyed their behests, can be otherwise than pleased when the Indian government follows the example of the United States. A metal which since and before the time of Moses has been used as money and of which the United States is the greatest producer, loses one-half its value by reason of the action of the United States congress and the policy of this and preceding administrations and precipitates a crisis which must result disastrously to the country. It is too sensical to assume that those who are mainly responsible for this untoward condition of affairs and intentionally brought it about, can be sincere in their expressions of regret that it has occurred.

THIRTY AND LAW-ABIDING.

Since Kansas released itself from the thrall of the goldbugs and declared its political independence it has been grossly misrepresented by the Wall-street newspapers. The leaders in the emancipation movement have been scoffed at and derided and their followers ridiculed for the purpose of prejudicing the people of other states against the cause which they advocated. They have been pictured as anarchists who encourage idleness and the continuance of crime by the old parties, and referred to as shiftless cranks who were filling the poorhouses and the jails.

Now, what are the facts regarding the "calumny howlers," as they were derisively styled last fall, when they forecast the result of the financial policy of the government, and advised the people to support men for office who favored the demonetization of silver? Statisticians show that in forty-four counties in the state, in each and all of which there are poorhouses and poor farms, there is not a pauper, and in thirty-seven counties at the last term of the district court there was not a criminal trial. These facts refute the misrepresentations of the goldbugs and conclusively prove that the people of Kansas are industrious and law-abiding, and that they are neither paupers nor criminals.

SENSIBLE SUGGESTIONS.

The Vicksburg Herald, a prominent southern paper, discusses the money question and says:

"All except those profiting by the squeeze, admit that there must be more money. The New York bankers prove it by suggesting clearing house certificates, which are to take the place of money. Gold does not go to a premium because it cannot pay debts, or taxes, or bank deposits, one whit better than silver. Then what shall be done? Shall there be an issue of fiat money or wildcat money, still less desirable, or shall this republic return to the double standard and coin gold and silver freely? That should be done, and instead of permitting a condition which makes it good policy to issue clearing house certificates, the government should expand the currency as to put in circulation enough money to carry on the business of the country with ease, which would result instantly in better prices and give employment to the millions now idle."

SILVER MINING STOPPED.

Representative Mining Men Meet in Denver.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Thirty-Five Salvationists Arrested At San Jose.

ROUGH ON COLORADO.

All the Smelters, Mills and Silver Mines to Close.

Special to the JOURNAL.] DENVER, June 29.—A large number of representative smelting and mining men of the state met this afternoon and unanimously decided to completely close down all the smelters, mills and silver mines in Colorado.

Ex-Governor J. B. Grant of the Omaha and Grant smelter presided.

The resolutions adopted declare that the world cannot transact business without silver money; that the actual cost and value of the metal far exceeds the incorrect views which monometallists have formed; that the inevitable course of events will quickly demonstrate that the enormous sums of money invested in railroads, loan and other property will so depreciate in value that the monometallists will also be convinced that some action must be taken with silver to restore it to its legitimate use which it has had from time immemorial.

It was therefore resolved to completely close down all the silver mines, mills and smelters in Colorado until such time as silver was appreciated at its proper worth. This action will throw many thousand persons out of employment.

Thirty-Five Salvationists Arrested.

Special to the JOURNAL.] SAN JOSE, Cal., June 29.—Thirty-five Salvationists arrested for parading the streets contrary to the new city ordinance appeared before Justice Cass this morning at 10 o'clock for arraignment. H. V. Morehouse, their attorney, entered a plea of not guilty for all and asked that only Captain Albert Wray be held under bonds, and further that he be taken in custody by the chief of police. The request was granted and their trial was set for July 19th.

As soon as Wray was taken in custody by an officer, Morehouse presented an application to Judge Lorigan for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted, instructing the chief of police to bring Defendant Wray in court to-morrow morning for a hearing on the writ.

The grounds for the writ are that the mayor and council have no power to make such an ordinance; that it discriminates against a religious body and is contrary to the constitution of the state and the general law of the land.

Valuable Mining Property Sold.

Special to the JOURNAL.] REDLANDS, Cal., June 29.—A. G. Hubbard of Redlands closed a sale to-day of the Bonanza mine at Harquin Hall, A. T., to an English syndicate. The price paid was nearly two millions of dollars.

Hubbard and Geo. W. Bowers of San Francisco, who died three weeks ago, bought the mine two years ago for $30,000. They put up a mill and have taken out $1,000,000 net in gold during the first year. A law suit was had with parties who attempted to jump the mine. A patent to the property was granted a few weeks ago.

The Golden Eagle is included in the sale. It has been worked but little and is supposed to be very rich.

A Train Robber Comes to Grief.

Special to the JOURNAL.] ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., June 29.—Another train robber came to grief to-day. A rough-looking character boarded the northbound passenger train at Oklahoma city carrying a large parcel. After the train was well out of town he went into the toilet room, and soon emerged with a Winchester in his hand. He held up the conductor and compelled him to stop the train, and then ordered him to go ahead to the engine.

As they stepped to the ground the robber allowed his gun to slightly shift. The agile conductor felled him with a blow on the jaw, and beat him into submission with his own gun. He was placed in jail at Wichita. He was equipped with two sacks of dynamite besides the gun.

Altgeld Hanged in Emory.

Special to the JOURNAL.] CHICAGO, June 29.—Governor Altgeld's action in pardoning the anarchists is evidently not well received in Naperville, Ill. Some people in that town last night hung an effigy of the governor across the principal street, and it was not cut down till this morning.

The governor was in this city to-day, and in speaking about the question of his citizenship said he was not alarmed about it; that his father was naturalized when he (the governor) was a very young boy.

Embezzled $70,000.

Special to the JOURNAL.] DALLAS, Tex., June 29.—S. J. Walling, Jr., cashier of the City National bank of Brownwood was arrested on information filed by Bank Examiner Cannon, charging Walling with embezzling $70,000 from said bank.

The President to Go to Buzzard's Bay. Special to the JOURNAL.]

WASHINGTON, June 29.—A consultation between Cleveland and the members of the cabinet to-day caused considerable gossip. The report was spread that Cleveland was consulting with reference to the advisability of calling an extra session earlier than September, but there is no foundation for the story.

There is reason to believe that Cleveland intends leaving the city within a few days for a long stay at Buzzard's bay, and he and the cabinet were merely arranging matters.

Treasury Appointments.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

WASHINGTON, June 29.—A large number of treasury appointments were agreed upon by the president and Secretary Carlisle last night and will probably be announced to-morrow or Saturday. Among them is J. F. Tillman of Tennessee for registrar of the treasury to succeed General Rosecrans, resigned.

An Important Pension Decision.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Assistant Secretary Reynolds of the interior department made a pension decision which will be welcome news to a large number of women who ministered to the wounded soldier in the hospitals during the late war. They are to be placed on the pension rolls.

The question arose upon a communication from the commissioner of pensions as to whether those women who superintended the diet of the sick and wounded soldiers were entitled to pensions under the provisions of the nurses' act. Assistant Secretary Reynolds holds that these persons are entitled to pensions.

The Applewhite Discharged.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., June 29.—Jas and Oliver Applewhite were brought before the court this morning for their preliminary examination charged with killing John and Silas Glenn last Saturday morning at the Glenn ranch. The courtroom was crowded with citizens desirous of hearing the testimony.

After several witnesses were sworn the attorney moved the court that defendants be discharged, it appearing that they had done the killing in self-defense. This motion, not being opposed by the district attorney the defendants were discharged.

No New Trial in the Blythe Case.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Superior Judge Coffey this afternoon denied the motion for a new trial in the Blythe case. It was made by the Blythe company and had been on argument about sixty days. The effort to get a new trial was backed by all the litigants except the Williams heirs who were disappointed by the supreme court decision in favor of Florence Blythe.

Weather Forecast.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—The forecast for Nevada is fair weather and warmer.

SILVER COINAGE IN INDIA.

A Country That is on a Silver Basis.

There are three mints in India. These are located at Calcutta, Bombay and Madras. The one at the last-named city has not been in operation for some years. Those at Calcutta and Bombay have been in almost uninterrupted operation for many years. These mints are under the control of the British government as represented in India. They coin both gold and silver. Comparatively little of the former metal is coined, and most of that is mined in the country. India is on a silver basis, and is the largest consumer of the white metal in the world. It has been denominated "the sink of silver," in view of the large quantities which are dumped there and the little that has been exported. A considerable quantity is consumed in ornaments of various kinds, personal and sacred. The system of religious worship absorbs a large amount, as the metal is freely used about the temples. The amount taken for coinage is also large. The sum thus required has varied considerably from year to year, some years showing 100 per cent more than others. It was not until 1875 that the treasury officials in this country undertook to collect statistics of India coinage.

Since then the coinage has averaged $34,150,714 a year, making the total for seventeen years $580,562,656. The coinage for the calendar year 1892 is not at hand, but is supposed to have been about $30,000,000.

In addition to the above statistics, we have an official statement from India showing the coinage by fiscal years from April 1, 1835, to March 31, 1879. For the first twenty years of that period the silver coinage varied from $1,065,901 for 1854-55 to $4,696,814 for 1844-45. During the next twenty years the amount mined was much larger, reaching as much as $14,504,049 in 1865-66. In five other years during the same interval it was above $10,000,000 per annum. In 1870-71 and 1871-72 it was $1,718,797 and $1,690,394 per annum, respectively. The largest amount ever coined was for the fiscal year of 1878-79, when the total was $16,180,828, or nearly $20,000,000 in American money.

The amount of gold coinage from 1835 to 1879 varied from $197,594 in 1835-36 to $2,676 in 1854-55. In six other years the gold coinage varied from $128,717 to $107,863. The largest amount in any other year was $95,672. In 1842-43 and 1852-53 no gold was coined. Paper currency was emitted in 1861-62, and the amount of this currency has since varied up to 1879 from $3,695,000 in the first year to $13,167,000 in 1871-72. The amount of silver coin held in the government vaults in India from 1870 to 1879 varied from $9,733,500 to $17,709,300.

The coinage laws of India were amended in September, 1880. The gold coins consist of 30, 15, 10 and 5 rupees pieces. The first-named is called a double mohur, the next a mohur, then two-thirds and one-third mohurs. The standard weight of the mohur as then established was 165 grains pure gold, or 180 grains eleven-twelfths fine. The other gold pieces were of corresponding proportions. The silver rupee contains 165 grains pure silver, or 180 grains eleven-twelfths fine. The half, quarter and eighth rupees are of corresponding weight. Gold coins are not a legal tender, while the silver rupee is a legal tender, as well as the half rupee, provided these coins have not lost more than 2 per cent in weight by natural wear, or have not been mutilated. Coinage of both metals is practically free, provided the amount presented is equal to fifty tolas in gold and 1,000 tolas in silver. There is a duty of one rupee per cent on all gold brought to the mints for coinage, and a duty of 1 per cent on all silver brought for the same purpose.

There is also a further small charge for melting and cutting the bullion and coin. The system, however, is known as free coinage.

The silver rupee adopted in 1835 was worth from 4 1/2 to 6 1/2 per cent less than those previously in circulation. The amount of silver from April 1, 1835, to March 31, 1882, was reported in 1883 at $200,000,000, of which $24,000,000 had been received from old coins. The stoppage of the mints at present is not necessarily a final abandonment of the silver system by India, though it is generally so construed. The primal object is in the way of an experiment and for the purpose of arresting any further decline in the dominant currency of that country. There is no scarcity of rupees in India, and if by declining to further coin any of these pieces those now out shall be enhanced in value, the action of the authorities will be generally commended, as the result will be an increase in the purchasing power of the money in circulation. There is some concern as to what disposition the mint authorities in India will take concerning silver en route to India at the time the edict closing the mints against private coinage was issued. It would seem only just that the government should take such silver at its market price and hold it as a part of its specie reserves.—San Francisco Bulletin.

The Greatest Laugh-Producing Farce Comedy.

Mark Murphy and his company of comedians in "O'Dowd's Neighbors" will appear at the opera house to-night.

Mr. Murphy is a peculiar comedian, with a personality entirely his own and original in the extreme. The audience commences to laugh at him on his very first appearance, and he has the happy knack of being able to keep up a continual flow of his laughing fluid among them and they laugh from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

WOOLLY LICE OF THE APPLE.

A Paper of Material Interest to Nevada Farmers.

(Newspaper Bulletin No. 6.)

Diagnosis—Apple trees infested by masses of woolly bodied lice about the scars of amputated limbs, along the sides of the smaller twigs, and at the axils of leaves; the white flocculent matter easily blown away by the breath disclosing the brown bodies of the lice.

Thus we may identify the insect commonly known throughout the country as the woolly aphid. At this season of the year these insects become very numerous. The dry climate of Nevada is exceedingly favorable to their rapid multiplication and longevity. Very early in spring small colonies of these insects may be found in protected places on the trunk and limbs of the apple tree. These colonies have been founded by a few individuals which have survived the winter protected by the roughness of the bark caused by their own activity the preceding year. As the season advances these colonies become larger. Individuals separate from their companions and establish new colonies, until at this time it is an easy matter to find single branches of an apple tree supporting a vast number of these pests. As the greater number of those to be found at this date are wingless their dissemination would appear to be limited. However, later in the season there appear many individuals provided with wings. Through these the rapidity of dissemination is greatly increased. The injury produced by these insects lies in their strength of numbers. The myriads of them, each industriously withdrawing the tree's sap, serve to reduce the tree's vitality very materially. They seek the tenderest parts, and hence growing twigs are dwarfed and old wounds are kept open. A young apple twig before me is furrowed by a deep scar extending a distance of several inches, and including the greater part of the circumference. In its struggle for existence barely enough nourishing sap has run the gauntlet of insect foes to supply a few stunted leaves and to increase the length of the twig to some extent. These twigs never fully recover from the effects of such an attack. Their early growth is checked by a reduction of the food supply; but, worse than this, their injured bark is unable to carry a normal amount of nourishment ever after.

These insects cannot be eradicated easily, if at all, except within restricted limits. However, they may be kept within the limits of comparatively non-injurious members. The use of white-wash and paint applied locally, cases of which have come under the notice of the writer in different parts of Reno, is effective so far as it goes, but it is not sufficiently far reaching. A more effective course is to apply some liquid that will kill the insects by contact without injury to the tree. Thus it is seen that a true poison is not demanded. Kerosene emulsion, a decoction formed from refuse tobacco or strong carbolic soap-suds will destroy the insects, and, if applied periodically, will effectually keep them in check. Repeated application is necessary. In short, these pests must be killed and kept killed. A force pump is absolutely necessary in the application of these remedies. The tree under treatment must be thoroughly wetted, and by no other means can this be accomplished.

Illustrated bulletin No. 17 of this station treats of this pest, and will be sent to any address upon application.

The case was completed at about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the court decided in favor of defendant, denying plaintiff's application for divorce.

Shadow Pictures.

The Carson News, which is edited by a young lady, has this:

"Take a piece of newspaper, squeeze it into a fairly symmetrical ball and then throw it on a piece of hard white paper placed under a brightly burning gas jet so that the shadow will be sharply defined. Then take a pencil and trace the outline of the shadow. It will prove to be the outline of a human profile. Toss it down as many times as you like and trace the outline. It will always be the drawing of a human profile. Never anything else. It never misses fire."

Pensioners of the Revolution.

Upon the death of Mrs. Maria Young, which occurred at her home in Pa.
on Wednesday, the 1st of October, her only widow who drew a pension from this district was stricken from the lists. Michael Fritz, the last survivor of the war of 1812 in this district, died about a year ago at his home near Reading. There are still several widows of the survivors of the war of 1812 drawing pensions from the Philadelphia office, and quite a number of the survivors of the Mexican war.

The theory that pensions prolong life by the removal of the constant worry to which aged persons of the poorer classes are subject is borne out by the remarkable vitality of the vast army of pensioners. There are still 15 widows of Revolutionary soldiers drawing pensions throughout the country. Mrs. Young, who died on Wednesday, was the oldest, having been but a few months less than 100. She was the widow of the late Captain Jacob Young, whom she married when she was 22. Despite her tender age, Captain Young was her third husband. The gallant captain survived six months of married life. Mrs. Young leaves 80 great-grandchildren and a large number of great-great-grandchildren, all by her first and second husbands.

When one considers the great disparity in the ages of the surviving Revolutionary widows and their late husbands, it looks very much as though some of the marriages had been purely commercial transactions. The Revolutionary war was over in 1788. Take the case of one of these dames who is now 75 and who married her husband when she was 25 years old. He could scarcely have been less than 20 when the war was over.
This would make the marriage take place in 1843. On the theory that he was 20 when the war was over, and she was 25 when she married him, he must have been 80 at that interesting period of his life. Then, when he died shortly after, she merely exchanged a husband for a pension.—Philadelphia Record.

The Clerk's Only Remedy.
A certain clerk in a Detroit establishment, who has money of his own, but holds a position for the looks of the idea, recently became impressed by the idea that he was working too hard, and he went to the manager about it.
"I want to say you," he said to that potentate, "about my duties here."
"What about them?" inquired the manager.
"I want fewer working hours."

The manager had his own views on the subject.
"Well," he said thoughtfully, "I don't see how we can arrange it, unless we make more than 24 hours constitute a day," and that ended the strike.—Detroit
